NO REASON FOR IT

When Norway Citizens Show a Way.

There can be no reason why any reader of this who suffers the tortures of an aching back, the annoyance of urinary disorders, the pains and dangers of kidney ills, will fail to heed the words of a neighbor who has found relief. Read what a Norway citizen says:

S. C. Foster, barber, Main St., Norway, says: "I was troubled by kidney complaint some years ago and I got Doan's Kidney Pills at Stone's Drug Store. A couple of boxes gave me relief."

Three years later, Mr. Foster said: "I use Doan's Kidney Pills now and then and they keep my kidneys in excellent condition."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Foster had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y. 11-12

THE SONG OF THE CAMP.

"Give us a song!" the soldiers cried,
The outer trenches guarding.
When the heated guns of the camps allied
Grew weary of their sounding.

The dark Redan, in silent scorn,
Lay, grim and threatening,
And the heavy moan of the Malakoff
No longer belched its thunder.

There was a pause. A guardsman said:
"We storm the fort tomorrow!
Sing while we may, another day
Will bring enough of sorrow."

Below the smoking cannon:
They lay along the trench's side,
Brave hearts from Severn and from Clyde,
And from the hills of Shannon.

They sang of love, and not of fame,
Forgot was Britain's glory;
Each heart recalled a different name,
But all sang "Annie Laurie."

Voice after voice caught up the song,
Until its tender passion rang,
Rose like an anthem rich and strong,
Their battle-axe confession.

Dear girl, her name he dared not speak,
But the song grew louder,
Something upon the soldier's cheek
Washed off the stains of powder.

Beyond the darkness came the dawn,
The bloody sun'set's embers,
While the Crimean valleys learned
The Russian sun'set's embers.

And once again a fire of hell
Rained on the Russian quarters,
With scream of shot, and roar of shell,
And howling of the mortars.

And Irish Nora's eyes are dim
For a singer dumb and gay;
And English Mary mourns for him
Who sang of "Annie Laurie."

Sleep, soldiers! still in honored rest
One truth and valor waiting,
The bravest are the tenderest—
The loving are the daring.

THE TWO SPRUCE TREES

Upon a mountain, side by side,
Two friendly spruces grew,
And one was tall and filled with pride—
The monarch of the wood.

The other was a lovely tree,
Not more than six feet high,
And other spruces laughed to see
His struggle towards the sky.

The monarch from his dizzy height
Would shout, "Why don't you grow!"
Alas, a tempest came one night
And laid the monarch low.

While by and by a woodsman came,
Who whistles merrily,
And gave the lovely spruce a name,
And called it "Christmas Tree."

And here it is to a house of light,
Where Christmas is so gay,
The spruce became a royal sight
By children's eyes surveyed.

And Christmas joy it brought to all,
As the hours went by,
'Twas glad for having grown so small
And was content to die.

THE HOME BOOSTER

If you like the old town best,
Help her grow.
If you'd have her lead the rest,
Tell us so.

When there's anything to do—
Let the folks count on you;
You'll feel busy when you're through
Don't you want to make a hit?

Get a name.
If the folks know it, it's
Who's to blame!
Spend the money in the town.

Where you have the best down;
Give the mail concern a frown;
That's the game!

If you're used to giving knocks,
Change your style;
Throw bouquets instead of rocks
For awhile.

Let the other fellow roast;
Shun him as you would a ghost;
Meet him hammer with a boast
And a smile.

When a stranger comes from afar
Comes along,
Tell him who and what we are—
Make it strong.

Needn't flatter, never bluff;
Tell the truth, for that's enough;
Join the boosters—they're the stuff.

People of Oxford County WHO HAVE FARMS TO SELL

I wish you to understand the reasons why it is to your interest to have your farm listed with E. A. Strout Farm Agency.

Do you think you should pay any charges for advertising your farm which does not bring you a buyer and helps an agency to finance the disposal of a more desirable property? We do not.

Do you think it to your advantage to have your farm in the hands of only one agent when more will gladly assist you in listing and advertising the same without any expense to you whatever at the same time giving you the privilege to dispose of it yourself if an opportunity avails itself without charge? We do not.

I think you will agree with us when you realize that we make no charge for listing and advertising your farm at the same time giving you the privilege of withdrawal without cost to you.

Further we guarantee to protect you from all commission on sale of any other agent when we sell your property.

Call and list your farm with us though it may be listed with others or write for free listing blank today.

Our Clearance Sale

is a success as our sales always are. The reason is plain. We always have all and more than we advertise.

We are selling Women's Russian Calf Button and Lace Boots the $4.00 grade for $1.65. Below are the sizes and widths now in stock.

Suits Made-to-Order

No doubt you buy ready-made suits because the price of tailor-made clothing is too high. If we can show you that your price will buy a tailor-made suit of good material, high grade workmanship and made especially to suit your needs, won't you be interested?

We've been studying for a long time how to combine the two problems—tailor-made suits and reasonable prices.

THE ROYAL TAILORS

have solved the problem. There is nothing wasteful in their shop. The cloth is cut to fit you—no waste; the tailors do their best work without any rush—no hurried work that has to be done over; they buy so carefully that they are not left with useless stock on their hands. All this is economy; the result is our low prices.

The shoulders of the ready-made clothing is nearly all padding that must mould itself to your shape. Stretch your arm and the mould stays behind, showing two graceless shoulder shapes. The mould will show wrinkles, too, even when you're standing still. Compare with a suit made by The Royal Tailors. Notice the flat-lying collar, the handsome shoulders. The dressy fall from the front of the shoulders is an effect that a ready made suit can never have. All this is done by stitching with a minimum of padding, so you will know that a Royal Tailors' suit can't lose its shape.

Come in and see our showing of high grade Worsteds, Treeds and Serges. You'll get the latest and most becoming styles. Suits will be made to your order by highly paid tailors.

RECORDS OF THE WAR BETWEEN THE STATES.

By Marcus J. Wright, Brigadier-General C. S. A. Agent of the United States War Department for the Collection of Military Records.

The war which was carried on in the United States in 1861-5, called "The War of the Rebellion," "The Civil War," "The War of Secession," and "The War Between the States," was one of the greatest conflicts of ancient or modern times. Official reports show that 2,065,028 men were mustered into the service of the United States. The report of Provost-Marshal General Fry shows that of these 31,363 were killed in battle, 34,733 died of wounds, 138,287 died of disease, 306 were accidentally killed, and 267 were executed by sentence. The Adjutant-General made a report February 7, 1869, showing the total number of deaths to be 303,504.

The Confederate forces are estimated from 600,000 to 1,000,000 men, and ever since the conclusion of the war there has been no little controversy as to the total number of troops involved. The losses in the Confederate army have never been officially reported, but the United States War Department, which has been assiduously engaged in collecting all records of both armies, has many Confederate muster-rolls on which the casualties are recorded. The tabulation of these rolls shows that 52,954 Confederate soldiers were killed in action, 21,570 died of wounds, and 59,297 died of disease. This does not include the missing muster-rolls, so that to these figures a substantial percentage must be added. Differences in methods of reporting the strength of commands, the absence of adequate field-records and the destruction of those actually made are responsible for considerable lack of information as to the strength and losses of the Confederate army. Therefore, the matter is involved in considerable controversy, and never will be settled satisfactorily, for there is no probability that further data on this subject will be forthcoming.

The immensity and extent of our great Civil War are shown by the fact that there were fought 2,261 battles and engagements, which took place in the following named States: New York 1; Pennsylvania, 9; Maryland, 30; District of Columbia, 1; West Virginia, 80; Virginia, 519; North Carolina, 85; South Carolina, 60; Georgia, 108; Florida, 32; Alabama, 78; Mississippi, 186; Louisiana, 118; Arkansas, 147; Tennessee, 298; Kentucky, 138; Ohio, 3; Indiana, 4; Illinois, 1; Missouri, 244; Minnesota, 6; California, 6; Kansas, 7; Oregon, 4; Nevada, 2; Washington Territory, 1; Utah, 1; New Mexico, 19; Nebraska, 2; Colorado, 4; Indian Territory, 17; Dakota, 11; Arizona, 4; and Idaho, 1.

It soon became evident that the official record of the War of 1861-5 must be compiled for the purposes of Government administration, as well as in the interest of history, and this work was projected near the close of the first administration of President Lincoln. It has continued during the tenure of succeeding Presidents, under the direction of the Secretaries of War, from Edwin M. Stanton, under whom it began, to Secretary Elihu Root, under whose direction it was completed.

OXFORD

"Dr. Glover's All America Show" which is wintering in the Doctor's stable at Oxford, met with a loss when the four raccoons under the lead of the redoubtable "Buster" broke into the stable and the guinea pig department killing six choice breeding pigs. Luckily the Angora pigs had been removed to other quarters a few days before and so escaped the slaughter. "Buster" eluded being caught for a while in the stable loft, but the other three offenders were caught at once.

Husband and Wife Both Saved From Suffering

I wish to tell you the good results my husband and I received from Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root. About eleven years ago I had a severe attack of La Grippe and was confined to my bed about eight weeks under the doctor's care. He pronounced my case kidney trouble and rheumatism and not receiving the results from the doctor's treatment I should have received, I decided to try Swamp-Root. After taking several bottles of Swamp-Root I was able to get up and attend to my work. About a year later my husband was affected with a severe attack of kidney trouble and doctored for some time with the doctors and received no benefit. Knowing of the good I had received, he decided to try Swamp-Root. His condition was such that he was confined to his bed and words cannot tell how he suffered, but after taking Swamp-Root he was relieved so he could go on with his work without pain. I wish to heartily recommend Swamp-Root to all persons afflicted with kidney and bladder trouble, and you may publish this letter if you wish.

Yours Truly,

MRS. A. E. BRIGGS,

Eldred, Pa.

Sworn and subscribed to before me, this 25th day of May, 1912.

IRA MCCARTHY, Notary Public.

GEN NEAL DOW'S BIRTHDAY.

Pleasing Reminiscences of the Veteran Patriot, Philanthropist and Statesman of Maine.

It being Gen. Dow's birthday, and much interest being manifested in regard to that grand old man, it occurred to me to send you the following incidents relating to him, which took place in Libby prison in the fall of 1863 or the winter of 1864 (the exact date I cannot give), under the observation of the writer.

Gen. Dow, having been captured in the South, was first confined in Mobile for a time and then transferred to Libby. It was always the case that when newly captured prisoners (fresh-fish) were brought in they had to give up all they knew about the progress of the war. So upon Gen. Dow's arrival it was arranged that he should speak to all the prisoners in mass meeting, assembled in the upper middle room at a certain time, upon the progress of the war in the department in which he had been serving. When the appointed time arrived, nearly all were on hand, and as it was known that the prison officials would not allow a meeting to be held for this purpose, sentinels were placed in the lower rooms to give warning if an officer should appear. Gen. Dow began his discourse; but it was not long before the danger signal was given and soon a rebel officer made his appearance in the room. He listened attentively until he comprehended the theme under consideration, then turned and went down stairs. But what he had listened to was a temperance lecture! When Gen. Dow received the signal he changed, without changing his attitude or his voice, from the subject of war to that of temperance, without being in the least disturbed or disconcerted, and he treated the subject in an eloquent, interesting and instructive manner. In his audience of ten or twelve hundred men there was not the least sign, by look or movement, that could convey to the rebel officer any idea that all was not what it seemed to be. After it had been reported that the officer had left the prison rooms, Gen. Dow resumed his original subject and concluded without further interruption.

Another incident will show the independence and manliness of Gen. Dow. Gen. E. P. Sammon, captured in West Virginia, was a prisoner with us. The prison officials made a small room off the corner of one of the large rooms and put a cot in it for Gen. Sammon's use. They offered Gen. Dow the same accommodations, which he refused. He would not ask or receive from the enemy favors that were not enjoyed by all. He said that he would remain with "the boys" and sleep on the floor, which he did.

The General, in company with the majority of us, was the possessor of but one shirt—a red flannel, which from long service and frequent washings had become short at both ends and worn thin at the elbows and in a certain other part. He made it part of his everyday business to keep the value of that shirt as near as possible by darning the worn parts with white yarn. Often have I seen him sitting on the floor with a blanket over his shoulders patiently working at that old shirt, and I noticed that it was done systematically and well, like all work that he undertook to do.

The room in which we were quartered was directly over the hospital room where many of our poor fellows lay sick and for their sake we used to try and make as little noise as possible. One day an officer was making a great disturbance and noise, for the fun of the thing, and when Gen. Dow remonstrated with him he became angry and abusive and appeared to be inclined to offer personal violence. Gen. Dow did not care a little bit, but stood his ground and gave him a lecture in very plain and vigorous language, characterizing his conduct as unbecoming an officer and a gentleman. Several Mainites stood ready to take care of Gen. Dow if the officer attempted any violence, but Gen. Dow was not aware of that fact.

I have always been an admirer of Gen. Dow since old "Maine Lew" times. I was a youth running wild in Maine, and these incidents had the effect of strengthening that admiration for his steadfast character, his courage to attack wrong and his encouragement of whatever was right.

LOWELL ANIMAL FERTILIZERS

To Progressive Farmers:

Due to the great European war, there is practically no potash in this country available for agricultural purposes. This scarcity makes those commercial fertilizers which depend on potash far too expensive for the majority of farmers.

Extensive experiments have been carried on by the Lowell Fertilizer Co. in conjunction with farm experts. The results have proven that larger amounts of organic ammonia and phosphate acid than are ordinarily used will practically act in the place of potash.

We have made fertilizers from nature's own prescription—animal matter, consisting of Bone, Blood and Meat. These fertilizers have been tested, and in every instance they have proven that good crops can be grown without the added expense of potash.

Read this letter from a progressive farmer who has tried the Lowell Fertilizer on his farm:

"I regard fertilizers without potash. I used the three kinds you sent me with good results. They were compared with a few tons of last year's goods containing 9 per cent. potash. These I planted in plots throughout the field, a ton or so in the plot, and when I dug my potatoes, I could see very little difference in the yield. I shall probably use 30 or 40 tons of your fertilizer next year, and if I cannot get potash at a fair price, will use without potash."
E. J. PARKER, Fatten, Maine.

HOW CAN WE MAKE OUR CHURCH A GREATER BLESSING TO THE COMMUNITY?

By Mrs. Fannie Wight.

Observing the construction of the sentence the words "greater blessing" attracted attention. It occurred to me to analyze the question to suit myself, to find out just what are the possibilities of solving it, viewing it in different lights or at different angles.

The comparative degree of the adjective implies that, with present day conditions favorable and unfavorable, the church as an institution bearing the gospel message, is a great blessing to humanity. And who in the face of all the convincing evidence from far and near can for a moment be pessimistic enough or dishonest enough to deny the fact? It would seem that only untoward and innumerable ignorance could be the explanation for a negative view.

Each church has its own peculiar local conditions and these conditions must be considered and dealt with. With our own we are all familiar. Among these conditions may be mentioned a small population in the immediate vicinity of the church, the remainder within our limits widely scattered and at a distance perhaps not conducive to getting out to Sabbath worship, and a comparatively large number of social clubs and secret societies, which seem to demand more or less attention from the same set of individuals.

It often seems that the church is the last and least to receive any consideration when by the divine right of its ancient and holy origin and by the right of its incontestable status as a civilizing influence it should be first and greatest in our thoughts and plans and the center of all our activities as a community.

If we inquire into the meaning of the pronoun "we" to whom does "we" refer? Our interpretation of the meaning makes a vast difference in the solution of the question. Who are "we"? Only those who have taken vows of the church? Does it refer merely to those persons who usually compose the congregation or the citizens of the community as a whole?

In offering these suggestions I shall venture that though the burden of making the church counts for the greatest good rest upon its members, yet all persons who employ its offices, or who are interested for a high standard of living or who in any way recognize its benign influence have a duty in sharing the burden.

If we heed the sentence we are confronted with the question, "Can we make our church a greater blessing in the community?" This is easily answered in the affirmative, for few any would dare affirm that they as individuals are doing all in their power to "advance the cause of the Kingdom."

If we as individuals can enlarge our powers for efficiency in church work, then surely the sum of the increased efficiency of several must result in a greater blessing to the community. Then how can we accomplish it, this greater blessing?

First, I should say, the church must be brought into greater prominence, it must do something to bring it into the minds of the people and keep it before the minds of the people. The services should constantly be made attractive. Something in church sociability should be engaged in though at the expense, even the cutting out of minor social duties.

The cry is heard on all sides "The young people must be reached." With that sentiment I fully agree. Then make that one object of special endeavor. Little is gained by compelling attendance at church or Sunday school. Hold out something interesting, entertaining, pure and wholesome, and be careful that no stumbling blocks are thoughtlessly placed in their way.

In my opinion a strong move toward increasing the influence of our church would be the acquisition of a vestry with serving conveniences, where in addition to devotional services the social life of the church would be promoted, making a more complete church home. Get the unquestioned good will of the young people and the chances are much better for a voluntary yielding to the influence to attend church and Sunday school.

If any one is inclined to comment mentally, "Suggest something within the realm of possibility," it might be well for him to imbibes something of the spirit of the individual portrayed in these lines:

"We" as members in addition to the ordinary church duties that fall to us, should be ready to sacrifice our time, our strength and our wills for whatever seems best for the greatest number. We should attend strictly to self-searching, aim to be more watchful, more prayerful, striving to eradicate our own besetting sins, and refraining from throwing stones at our neighbors, (for all of us live in glass houses), remember that though our own faults may differ from those of our neighbors, they are none the less grievous to the Great Searcher of hearts.

"We," as citizens, with the welfare of our community at heart and who are perhaps somewhat concerned because, as we think, the church is not fulfilling its mission, would find a blessing already realized to ourselves not only by rendering liberal financial aid, but by lending the cheer of our presence in God's house thus sanctifying, not the lives of the church members, nor the particular creed of the church, nor the pastor, who preaches, though giving renewed courage, strength, and inspiration to God's servant to give his best self to His cause; but sanctifying the worship of God and ourselves worshipping our God and Christ to whom all honor is due and without whom life would be a colorless picture, a vast desert.

Then if "we" as members and "we" as citizens would combine forces and set apart the best that is in us for the church, keeping other social demands in the background, I feel quite sure that we would find our lives would be full of satisfaction with the things that are most worth while and we would be realizing the greater blessings for ourselves and eventually for the whole community.

Let us remember these lines and apply them, whether to the things of God, the church or our friends.

"If you have faith, preach it; if you have doubts, bury them; if you have joy share it."

Bolster's Mills, Me.

Universal peace? Huh! One-half the world is crapping with each other, and the rest is crapping with their wives. Shall women all dress alike? "Heaven forbid," chorus the women. Shall they dress at all? "If you have faith, preach it; if you have doubts, bury them; if you have joy share it."

Jolly Twelve Gentlemen's Night.
The Jolly Twelve Whist Club on Friday evening, March 17 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Ridlon in observance of St. Patrick's Day.

The house was prettily decorated with green flags, shamrock and garlands of green and white. There were five tables of whist and prizes were as follows: Ladies, Mrs. L. H. Penley, hand-painted bon-bon dish; Gentlemen, C. L. Ridlon, box of cigars. Consolation prizes; Mrs. Harold Dunham and Mr. A. D. Swift.

At about 10:30 o'clock all met in the dining-room where a most excellent supper awaited them. Twenty plates were laid and all did justice to the good things set before them.

WEST MINOT

A Native of Minot.
Prof. Frederick C. Robertson of Boston, a native of Minot, died on March 1 at the hospital, where he has for a long time been under treatment.
He was the son of Osgood and Louisa Hayes Robertson of Minot Center, born March 12, 1848. In his boyhood he attended the public schools here, later going to Hebron Academy and to what is now B. L. H. S., fitting for college, entering Amherst, teaching vacations to carry himself through.
After leaving Amherst he took up the study of oratory with Prof. Monroe of Boston, soon taking rank among the foremost teachers of this art. Although he had finished but half the course when he left Amherst, his Alma Mater in view of his distinction as a teacher in this art, bestowed upon him the honorary degree of M. A.
Prof. Robertson was a man of broad sympathies, kindly helpful and generous to a fault.
Late in the seventies he had a very serious illness from which he never fully recovered, though he did some good work after and visited Jerusalem, Switzerland and other parts of Europe. In later life his health became more precarious and his last years were spent in the hospital where he died. Interment was at Minot Center cemetery.

Lakeside Grange have decided to hold their Circle supper, entertainment, etc., on Wednesday evening of this week. One of the enjoyable features of the entertainment will be the farce, "Lucy's Old Man," with the following—cast of characters:
Mrs. Amanda Monroe, a match-making mother, Mrs. Elsie Stevens
Miss Eleanor Monroe, the daughter, Gladys Witham
Miss Lucy Plimpton, Mrs. Monroe's niece, Jennie Little
Erasmus Anderson, a wide-awake visitor, Arthur Smith
Billie, a Dutchman, Harry E. Smith
The Harrison Driving Club held a banquet at Elms Inn, Saturday evening, and afterward attended the movies in Grange Hall. Covers were laid for thirty-four and nearly all the members were present.

F. Perley Freeman, our popular druggist, is doing quite a chicken business, already. He has seven chicks, some weeks old, and an incubator full hatching at the present writing. He has also bought 100 day-old chicks from a party in Buckfield, and this all goes to show that our druggist is a hustler.
